Purple Maxx

Model: SA233

Purple Maxx

Manufacturer: Humboldt County's Own

Purple Maxx has been in development for over two years under the name of STACKER. They discovered a combination of organic compounds that would not only encourage plants to "stack" their flowering sites closer together during early flower development but would also stimulate increased resin development later. Plus, it would increase the girth of primary flowers, add mass and stimulate extreme crystallization in resin producing plants. Early testers also found that using a feeding regimen of both Gravity and STACKER reported their plants turned dark purple! Please keep in mind this is an experimental product and is not completely ready for sale, but due to extreme demand is now being released in limited quantities. When applied properly, Purple Maxx enhances the existing purple produced. Plants that do not contain purple may not see any color change.
